- Researchers who are working on key issues of central importance to the German-American relationship and related to one of the Institute's three broad programming areas: Foreign & Domestic Policy; Business & Economics; and Society, Culture & Politics. In addition to balancing between these three program areas, the Institute will seek to target applicants who focus on the most policy-relevant issues at the time.
- Researchers who are not directly members of the German-American or transatlantic scholarly communities but whose research complements the work of ongoing projects and study groups sponsored by the Institute, and who might benefit from involvement in these project activities.

3) ERP: A German-American Dialogue of the Next Generation: Global Responsibility, Joint Engagement

Exempt Purpose Achievement. The purpose of the project is to emphasize the important role of the next generation of transatlantic leaders and experts and to give them a platform and voice in the critical dialogue of crucial global issues that require joint transatlantic attention and solutions. The project participants come from a variety of disciplines and have a wide array of expertise. Representing the three AICGS Program Areas—Foreign & Domestic Policy; Business & Economics; and Society, Culture & Politics—the participants formulated a set of recommendations that were presented in a variety of venues and through innovative means. The project is a year-long engagement with current critical transatlantic issues, which includes the future of trade agreements, the role of civil society in conflict resolution, and the rise of populism as a threat to European cohesion.

The project intends to highlight the perspectives of the next generation of transatlanticists and to broaden the public debate about important issues. Digital media form a crucial element of the project. With frequent blogs, virtual meetings, tweets, and videos, AICGS is targeting new and established generations to draw them into the fold of the transatlantic circle. The project ultimately hopes to contribute to maintaining and expanding the transatlantic bond between the United States and Germany in a complicated world.
